DECEMBER 2003 NEWSLETTER

Seasons Greetings

A very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to you all from gallery director Euan Hills and his staff. Thanks for buying the best Australian Aboriginal fine art from Art Mob over the past 12 months.

Ros Langford's new direction

"Forget Critters!" Ros said. "Done that". What Ros is now doing shows a new direction. Spirits Daughter of Mother Earth is a very special work – judge for yourself. Her recent sale of one of her nationally and internationally significant spirit paintings to a key corporate account in Dubai adds to her list of works in special collections. "But don't forget to get your Tassie Critters 2004 calendars" she added. The order form is on the reverse or order on-line at www.artmob.com.au. At $12.95 each these make a wonderful gift.

Anjolu Heather Umbagai

Don't miss our End of Year Big Bang musical evening on Thursday December 4th launching Anjolu's beautiful paintings from Mowanjum in the West Kimberley. These works set a new standard in Aboriginal contemporary art. Greg Lehman from Riawunna will launch the exhibition at 6pm accompanied by some fine jazz by Philip Lowe and fellow musicians on didgeridoo, piano, clarinet and drums.

Australia's Top 50 collectable artists

Australian Art Collector publishes their Top 50 collectable artists list each January. Euan feels that a number of his stocked works fall into that category for 2004. Watch for an update in our next newsletter and see if his guess that Wimmij Tjapangarti and Naata Nungarrayi will be listed.

Aboriginal artists resident in Tasmania

Continued interest in our local artists' works means that Art Mob is adding more artists to the stable. Corey Skipper joins Timothy West, Levi Bell, Ros Langford, Judith-Rose Thomas, Allan Mansell and Mountain River man Leigh Oates. Our local works are now in homes all over the world.

New Warlpiri works

Audrey Williams Napanangka and Rachel Jurra Napaljarri have recently sent some new paintings to Hobart from Yuendumu. These 2 lovely Warlpiri artists produce amazing work and their use of multi-coloured dots produces beautiful 3-D effects on their bush tucker and kangaroo dreaming paintings. Several observations have been made by clients on the similarities of their work to the early works of Clifford Possum. Rachel's huge (2.35m x 1.25m) Kangaroo Dreaming is a real masterpiece.
