January '09

2009 Exhibitions

The year starts with Ikuntji Icons from Ikuntji Art Centre at Haasts Bluff opening on January 9 but it's live now online. There is an amazing range of contemporary work coupled with some more traditional pieces. We could have named this show "Whacko & Wild" – don't miss it! It's already selling strongly. Some of the artists include great names such as Eunice Napanangka Jack and Alice Nampitjinpa. February features paintings from Lockhart River in Far North Queensland with a show entitled "The Gang comes to Hobart". And then our 2009 solo for Mick Quilliam follows in March.

Blackstone or the Bush

We've added another 28 works to our collection of paintings from Papulankutja Artists at Blackstone in WA. It's a virtual exhibition but all works are now available from stock having travelled to us after the "We are Celebrating" exhibition finished at Tandanya in Adelaide. The Adelaide public missed out on some great works! Art Mob supports this community art centre strongly along with quite a number of others.

Indigenous Law Bulletin

The University of NSW's publication featured art works by Audrey Martin Napanangka in their August/September issue. Sam Jupurrula Wickman's art glass also featured in their June/July issue. It's always good to see our artists gain excellent exposure.

Behind Euan's desk

We still hang specially selected works on this special wall and they feature at the bottom of our website's home page. The orange Kudditji currently hanging is simply one of those special works.

2008 Exhibitions

Our strongest exhibition for 2008 was Warlukurlangu Wonders. Some of those wonders are still waiting for new homes so check them out on our website. Susan McCulloch was a great speaker and ambassador for our gallery.

New Year

We trust that your New Year's resolution will be to look at investments wisely. Many of our clients have remarked on how well their Aboriginal art portfolio has performed in comparison to other sectors! We are always happy to help find great investment pieces and a few overlooked works from 2008 feature on this page.
